2016.1.11-2016.1.17

This week my main works are as follows:

- Assisting Junhua Lu in writing Recent Progress and Trends of Predictive Visual Analytics, and finished this project on 15th January.
- Preparing the project of Criminal Forecast.
- Joining the project VAUDWeb, which was directed by Feiran Wu and Zhaosong Huang.

Monday-Tuesday

I have checked the survey of Recent Progress and Trends of Predictive Visual Analytics with Junhua Lu, Zongzhuang Li, Yuxin Ma. We have received the suggestions from Ross Maciejewski and we corrected the survey of Recent Progress and Trends of Predictive Visual Analytics according from these suggestions.

Wednesday

I have gone to the T-gram and have found some mistakes with printed data. For example,

- There are some names structured in "NAME+TAB" format.(only one or two in one million)
- There are some mistakes in exporting the NET data, I have found some people going to the internet café too much time. Like almost 3000 hours a week, but one week only has 24*7 hours...

We have decided re-export the data, and then we have found the Sever of Solr database has been crashed, the T-gram said they will fix up the Sever of Solr database next week.

Thursday- Friday

I have corrected the survey of Recent Progress and Trends of Predictive Visual Analytics with Junhua Lu, Zongzhuang Li, Yuxin Ma, and we submitted this article to Frontier of Computer Science on 15th January.

During the process of submission, I have learned a lot:

- Be careful and patient, write an outstanding article should begin with deliberation(精敲细啄).
- We should corrected the references when we copy it from Google.
- We should pay more attention to the communication with group members, a good communication can help us a lot.
- English is a significant skill in writing article.

Saturday-Sunday

Reinstall the system and format the disk.

I have reinstalled software on weekend.
